

Blossom Festival May 6-7; Queen Contest April 29

C. C. DuMont, Ulster Park, Will Be General Chairman of Second Annual Event; Kurti Secretary

Crowning at Park

Festival's Queen Will Attend Coronation Rites at Forsyth Park May 6

C. C. DuMont of Ulster Park has been elected general chairman of the second annual Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival which will take place on May 6 and 7. Albert Kurti, manager of the Farm Bureau, was chosen executive secretary, at a meeting of the organization committee yesterday.

The organization is not yet complete, but John H. Saxe will serve as treasurer; Edward M. Huben is the chairman of the publicity committee and Mrs. William Denby of Highland will head the coronation pageant committee. Edmund R. Bower, county 4-H agent, will serve as assistant secretary.

Council Memberships

The entire festival will be financed by memberships in the Ulster County Council. Annual memberships will be solicited. The extent of the festival will be governed by the support voluntarily received from individuals, organizations and business firms. Individual memberships will cost $1 and group or business memberships will be $5. This is expected to cover the entire cost of the festival without additional solicitation for funds. Membership certificates will be available next week and memberships should be sent to the office of the executive secretary, 74 John street, this city.

Several Plans Offered

Several plans have been offered for the features of the festival. The final queen selection probably will take place on April 29. It is possible that community pageants will take place on April 30, followed by a big county-wide celebration on May 6. The features will be a coronation parade, followed by a big pageant and the coronation at Forsyth Park in Kingston. In the evening a queen's banquet will take place, followed by coronation ball. May 7 will be designated as rural life Sunday.

Mrs. Denby has already arranged for a meeting of the coronation pageant committee Friday evening, March 24, at her home in Highland. The meeting is called for 6 o'clock and will be followed by a buffet supper.

All Communities
It is expected that all festival committees will be organized by early next week. All communities of the county will be represented. Judging from the inquiries already received there is considerable interest in the Ulster County Festival. Numerous letters have been received asking when it will take place. These letters have been received from Chambers of Commerce in neighboring cities, bridge authorities, large gasoline companies, newspapers and automobile clubs.

The success of the 1938 festival from the standpoint of national publicity for Ulster county is coming gradually to be recognized, according to Mr. Kurti. The success of the 1938 festival already is assured and active financial support will enable the committee to expand the present plans. It was agreed that no obligations will be assumed until the necessary funds are in the hands of the treasurer. Voluntary contributions larger than the $5 memberships will be welcomed by the committee.

Action Continued

The contract action brought by Andrew M. Runk of Clintondale against Dr. H. A. Benson of Poughkeepsie, an action to recover wages, which was commenced Thursday in Supreme Court before Justice Schrick and a jury. All jurors will return to court Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Pope to Take Charge May 18 of Cathedral of St. John's Lateran as Bishop of Rome

Vatican City, March 17 (AP)—The Vatican announced today that Pope Pius XII had set May 18 for taking possession of the Cathedral of St. John Lateran which is the pontiff's See as bishop of Rome.

His Holiness also decided to celebrate Mass in St. Peter's basilica on Easter Sunday and afterward to bless the crowd in St. Peter's Square from the balcony where he was crowned last Sunday.

The pontiff this morning received Bishop Preysing of Berlin, a special coronation mission from the Dominican Republic and the Most Reverend Moses E. Kiley, bishop of Trenton, N. J.

No Appointments To Police Force By Commissioners

Two Vacancies Still Remain in Department; Chief Reports on Radio System, Gives Monthly Statement

No action was taken Thursday evening by the Board of Police Commissioners to fill the two vacancies on the police force caused by the resignation of Officer Ray Saehoff and the death of Officer Ralph Stewart.

The Civil Service Commission recently filed an eligible list from which two appointments could be made. Just when the vacancies on the force will be filled is not known.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood reported that the two-way radio system planned to be installed in one of the radio cars was held up until a construction permit was received from the Federal Communications Commission. Application for the permit was made some time ago.

By use of the two-way radio system it will be possible for the officers in the radio car to talk with police headquarters. Under the present one-way system in use the officers in the car only receive messages sent over the air from the police radio.

The monthly report of the chief of police showed that there were six accidents in the city during February in which eight people were injured, four of them pedestrians and four occupants of automobiles. The police department made 23 arrests during the month.

Youth Arrested, No Light on Bicycle

First Avenue Boy Gives City Judge First Case Violating Provision of Charter

Herbert Koch, 19, of 75 First avenue, was arrested Thursday night by Officers Rodell and Fallon, who found him riding his bicycle without a light on it, which is a violation of the city charter.

"This is the first case of its kind that has been brought to my attention since I have been city judge," said Judge Matthew V. Cahill, and for that reason he suspended sentence on the promise of Koch to equip his bicycle with a light.

The youth told the judge that two months ago he had been stopped by the police and at that time had been warned not to operate his bicycle at night without a light on it. He said the reason he had not equipped it with a light was because he did not have the money. He said that the bicycle originally had a light on it, but had been stolen some time ago, and when recovered it was found that the light had been removed from the machine.

Dark Forms on Ice Floes Start Rumor Two Men Adrift

Call to Local Police From Ulster Park, Relayed to Sheriff, Sends Tug Rob to Rescue

At Full Speed

Craft With Officers Aboard Scurries Downstream; Dock Posts Found

An ice floe on the Hudson came in for undue attention today because it carried two dark forms which attracted special notice on its spring exodus to the ocean.

First an alarm came in to local police headquarters at 8:35 o'clock this morning and then it was relayed to the sheriff's office and subsequently state troopers learned of the situation.

Call From Ulster Park

The first call was from the John Hilden residence at Ulster Park and some concern was expressed to the effect that the dark forms looked like two men taking an unwilling sail down the river.

Others discovered from the shore that, sure enough, the forms simulated those of two men and there was no resting until somebody got out there to see.

Sheriff Molyneux, with Deputy Sheriffs Ray Winne, Arthur Brown and Clayton Vredenburg and State Troopers Paul Senecal and Arthur Reilly answered the alarm and went to the scene.

All alarms indicated that what was there, was clearly discernible from the shore, and the officers forcing trouble in the event, the ice broke, secured cooperation of the Cornell Steamboat Company and the tug Rob was made ready.

At Top Speed

The official party went at top speed down the river and when they neared the "two-men-on-ice" proposition it was in the wide channel by the Esopus lighthouse.

As the tug drew within satisfying seeing distance of the floe, the officers discovered that the objects of their search were two pieces of docking which had been frozen fast. The tug cruised about to make sure that there were no other such objects and then returned to port.

Insofar as the police could learn the objects incited alarm when they were seen by a Mr. Jordan and a companion who in turn reported their discovery to the Hilden family.

Objects Sighted

Later it was reported that residents along the river had reported to Sergeant Hulse that they had been unable to identify the objects as men, but that it was believed calls for help had come from the river.

A close check by the police, however, indicates no report of missing persons had been received, and it is believed that the dock posts were the cause of the original and all subsequent alarms.

Poughkeepsie Youth Fined For Stealing 'Bike' Here

It does not pay to steal a bicycle in Kingston as Fred Brizee of Poughkeepsie found out this morning when he was arraigned in police court, and on his plea of guilty was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail by Judge Matthew V. Cahill.

Brizee, when arrested Thursday night, gave the police the name of Raymond Bruce and his residence as Locust avenue, but when the police checked on his story they found there was no family by the name of Bruce on that street.

This morning "Bruce" changed his name to Brizee which he said was his right name.

He had stolen the bicycle owned by Fred Supplies from in front of 50 Johnston avenue.

Confession Alleged

Milton, Fla., March 17 (AP)—Sheriff John Harrell of Chipley said today a 20-year-old Pensacola youth who gave his name as Harvey McGraw had confessed he killed two Montgomery, Ala., men found tied together and shot near here this morning.

Nazarene Service

There will be a special service at the Church of the Nazarene, this evening, starting at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. Henry Reeves will speak on Eastern Nazarene College. Leslie Strathern, Scotch radio singer, will take part in the program.

He also hopes to go to San Francisco for the Golden Gate Exposition, but he will not make a decision until Congress adjourns. Altogether, he will add considerably to the 150,000 miles he has traveled since he became president.

His tentative schedule follows: March 23—Goes to Warm Springs for a vacation and to dedicate a new school and hospital at the Infantile Paralysis Foundation. During this trip he will motor to Alabama for a speech (date not set) before the negro school at Tuskegee. He returns to Washington April 10.

April 14—Speaks at Mount Vernon to commemorate the 150th anniversary of George Washington's notification of his election as first president.

April 15—Attends gridiron dinner in Washington.

George Says F.D.R. Uses Patronage as Convention Wedge

Senator Says He Knows What Is Happening in Georgia and Same Is True Elsewhere; Smith Also Speaks

Washington, March 17 (AP)—Senator George (D-Ga.) charged the Roosevelt administration today with attempting to gain control of delegates to the 1940 Democratic convention through dispensation of federal patronage.

"I know that is happening in Georgia," he said, "and I understand that substantially the same thing is taking place in several other states."

While George declined to discuss specifically any state other than his own, Senator Smith (D-S. C.) expressed the belief the administration was trying to exercise direct control of patronage in his state. Senator Tydings (D-Md.) said that at one time an unsuccessful attempt was made to organize a New Deal patronage committee in Maryland.

(These three senators were opposed unsuccessfully by President Roosevelt in last year's primary elections because of their opposition to various administration measures.)

A few weeks ago, Senators Byrd and Glass, Virginia Democrats, asserted that President Roosevelt had turned over Virginia patronage matters to Gov. James H. Price.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) announced to newspapermen he would be a candidate for re-election next year. Wheeler was a leader in the fight against the Roosevelt court bill, although he has supported a number of New Deal proposals.

There was some speculation in the Capitol as to the administration attitude toward Wheeler's candidacy. Some politicians pointed out that if the President visits the San Francisco Fair, he might find occasion to go through Montana.

Wheeler was the first of 32 senators whose terms expire January 3, 1941, to make known his plans.

Ambassador Speaks

Paris, March 17 (AP)—United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt today declared the United States was building up its armaments because it knows "crimes against international morality are being committed every day." British Ambassador to Berlin Is Recalled; Daladier Receives Dictatorial Right to Wage War

F. D. Fitzgerald, Michigan Official, Dies of Influenza

Lieut.-Gov. L. D. Dickinson, Also Ill, Takes Over Office; Fitzgerald Held State's Chief Office Twice

Lansing, Mich., March 17 (AP)—Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald died last night and was succeeded today by Lieut. Gov. L. D. Dickinson, who will be 80 years old on April 15.

Dickinson—like his predecessor, a Republican—automatically succeeded to the governorship of Michigan when a heart attack ended the career of the 54-year-old Fitzgerald last night.

Fitzgerald rose in a quarter of a century from an unimportant clerkship in the state's service to be elected governor twice. He began his second two-year term last January 1.

The administration of Frank Murphy, now United States attorney-general, was sandwiched between Fitzgerald's two terms. Murphy, a Democrat, defeated Fitzgerald for reelection at the end of the Republican's first term, and in turn lost to Fitzgerald when he sought to retain the governorship. Dickinson is a conservative, not a party machine member, and is national vice president of the Anti-Saloon League.

Fitzgerald was ordered to bed with influenza Monday at his home in Grand Lodge, where he died last night. His physician said complications attributed to an illness several years ago figured in his death.

Dickinson is in bed at his residence in Charlotte, where he and his wife both are victims of the "flu." He took the oath in his sick-room.

The next in line of succession, Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly, is recovering from influenza in his Lansing hotel.

The new governor was born in Niagara county, N. Y.

Officials Consider WPA Waiting List

New Plan Would Allow Relief Agency to Drop Some to Give Others Employment

Washington, March 17 (AP)—The WPA and congressmen handling relief appropriations are giving serious consideration to a plan for replacing persons who have been on relief rolls longest with individuals on the waiting list.

Both WPA Administrator Harrington and members of a House appropriations subcommittee were described today as favoring such an arrangement.

This "rotation" system, it was disclosed, has received considerable attention at hearings before the subcommittee on President Roosevelt's request for a supplementary relief fund of $150,000,000 to relieve WPA until June 30.

Interested legislators said a provision for a rotation system probably would not be written into this appropriation bill, but that something might be done about it when funds are voted for WPA activities in the year beginning July 1.

The subcommittee, unconvinced that $150,000,000 more was necessary, recalled Harrington for further questioning today.

Port Jervis Probe Opens

Newburgh, N. Y., March 17 (AP)—A special grand jury investigating the affairs of Orange county turned today to the police department of Port Jervis. Special Prosecutor Raymond P. Whearty said he had summoned Police Chief Edward Moorehead, six patrolmen, former Mayor R. Grant Thorpe and the latter's son, John R. Thorpe, all of Port Jervis. The jury also heard John L. Sloan, welfare superintendent of Orange county's largest city, Newburgh.

Whearty said, and considered the case of Fred M. Davis, Port Jervis supervisor indicted by a regular grand jury as a gaming house keeper.

Second Indictment

New York, March 17 (AP)—A second indictment, containing three counts of conspiracy, was returned today against former Federal Judge Martin T. Mahoney by the same federal grand jury which indicted him several weeks ago.

Sad but dry-eyed, Mrs. Wilma Holt tries to amuse her two-year-old son, Harold, Jr., at a New Rochelle, N. Roosevelt Cites Need For Neutrality Action

Chief Executive Believes Conferences Will Settle Preliminary Work, and Message to Congress Won't Be Necessary—President Refuses to Go Into Detail on Issue

Washington, March 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today that European developments demonstrated the need for a revision of the American neutrality act at this session of congress.

The president's assertion was made at a press conference in response to a question.

He told another inquirer that there was need for revision during this session, but he believed it would be worked out in conferences instead of his recommendations for changes being put in the form of a message to capital hill.

Mr. Roosevelt would not go into detail. Heretofore, there have been reports that the administration would prefer greater freedom or flexibility in imposing arms embargoes in event of foreign wars.

Asked if his recommendations would go beyond the act's provision requiring that belligerents pay cash and carry in their own ships materials purchased in this country, the chief executive suggested that his message of January 4 be read.

Still Has Envoy
Another inquiry was whether the United States would recognize General Franco's government in Spain. The president replied that the loyalist government still had an ambassador in Washington.

He also noted that the United States had a diplomatic representative to what remained of the loyalist government, which, he said, still controlled many miles of territory.

The president would not answer a question whether he thought developments in Europe might prevent the King and Queen of England carrying out their proposed trip to this country in June.

The president went over his press conference with Under-Secretary Welles of the state department. He said Welles probably would have something to say at his press conference later in the day.

France Launches Mission to Put Prestige in Rumania at Former Status

Washington, March 17 (AP)—The United States government expressed today its "condemnation" of Germany's "wanton lawlessness" and "arbitrary force" in occupying Czechoslovakia.

With the approval of President Roosevelt, Acting Secretary of State Welles issued a formal statement in which he spoke of Germany's absorption of most of Czechoslovakia as a "temporary extinguishment of the liberties of a free and independent people with whom, from the day when the republic of Czechoslovakia attained its independence, the people of the United States have maintained specially close and friendly relations."

Welles declared: "It is manifest that acts of wanton lawlessness and of arbitrary force are threatening world peace, and the very structure of modern civilization."

The acting secretary of state made his statement after conferring with the President and he said his statement had received the Chief Executive's approval.

(By The Associated Press)

Both France and Britain today manifested their concern over and disapproval of Germany's advance in central Europe as the Nazi state clamped its hold on the bloodlessly conquered former Czechoslovak republic.

Britain called home her ambassador to Berlin, Sir Neville Henderson, to report on Germany's new eastward expansion.

The French cabinet approved a bill to give Premier Daladier virtual dictatorial decree powers for more than eight months to make France ready to fight at a moment's notice.

Daladier's government hoped to have both chambers of parliament adopt the brief measure this week-end.

Won't Quit Legation

At Washington Czechoslovakia's defiant minister rejected today orders from Prague to surrender the Czech legation and consulates to German representatives.

The minister, Colonel Vladimir S. Hruban, said in a statement he had informed the Prague foreign affairs ministry he did not recognize President Hacha's capitulation as valid, "inasmuch as it is unconstitutional."

"According to the constitution of the Czechoslovak republic," Hruban said, "any territorial changes of the state must be approved by the Czechoslovak national assembly with a three-fifth majority of all its members."

"The president or the government is not empowered by the constitution to cede any part of Czechoslovak territory. The agreement signed in Berlin on March 15, therefore, is not valid."

Oath to Czechoslovakia
"I took the oath to obey the laws of the Czechoslovak republic; no one has power to force me to act against the law."

London and Paris consulted on a joint French-British protest to Germany.

A French movement also was launched to send a special mission to central and eastern Europe to restore French prestige in Rumania, Soviet Russia and other nations which once formed part

Perkins' Criticism

House Committee Republicans to Insist That Group Make Strong Representations

Washington, March 17 (AP)—Republican members of the House judiciary committee decided today to insist that the committee incorporate a strong criticism of Secretary Perkins in its report next week on disposition of impeachment charges against her.

Most of them agreed privately with Democrats that Miss Perkins' procedure in deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges, CIO west coast maritime leader, was not illegal. But they said some steps in the case were "unusual" enough to merit censure.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 17, 1939.

HITLER MARCHES

Nazism is marching again, and it's bad news for the free countries.

The procedure is familiar. The Nazis, annoyed by the failure of shrunken Czechoslovakia to disarm and distribute her gold reserve and denounce her alliance with Russia, since the Munich settlement, foment trouble among the Slovaks. The latter demand independence, and their ousted leader goes to Berlin for support, just as the Sudeten leader did last year. Hitler immediately takes over the rebellion and rushes an army to threaten the Czechs and compel the "independence" of Slovakia.

There is no way to prevent this new dismemberment except by fighting. The big democracies will not fight for Czechoslovakian independence or Czech rights, even though they pledged themselves in the Munich treaty to guarantee the new national boundaries. The little Central European nations, though fearing and resenting Nazi aggression, dare not act.

The upshot of this incident, apparently, is that the Czech republic will be reduced to Bohemia and Moravia, entirely surrounded by German territory and Nazi-dominated Slovakia. The Pilsen munition works will be making war materials only for Germany. And Hitler will have a corridor through Hungary, Rumania or the Russian Ukraine.

SOVIET "PROGRESS"

Dictator Stalin, after a long silence, has come out and done quite a job of bragging, much of which seems unjustified.

It is all right for Stalin to announce that he hasn't any notion of fighting Germany to help the democracies. It would be pleasant to be assured that he hasn't any notion, either, of fighting the democracies to help Germany, although that doesn't seem very probable.

Then Stalin goes on to brag about what Russia has accomplished. Everything considered, capitalist countries must admit that Russia, starting from scratch, has done a good deal, when we all expected complete failure and collapse long before this. It is much more for the Russian government and economy to have survived. But when that is granted, Stalin's boasts can still be poked full of holes.

Is the Soviet Union really "the only country in the world which knows nothing of crises, and where industry is on the up-grade?" There has been crisis after crisis in Russia, first economic—especially in sovietized agriculture—and then governmental. What about all those treason trials and purges? And why the deep silence in Russia for the past year, with no news coming out?

When Stalin says "We have outstripped the principal capitalist countries as regards the technique of production and the rate of industrial development" he is doing some very tall talking. American engineers know, and have told, how incredibly backward Russia is in industrial production. They are still very primitive and inept.

As for "moral and political unity"—well, we haven't heard of any more wholesale executions lately.

BRAZILIAN COOPERATION

The more that economic deal with Brazil is considered, the better it looks. True, we seem to be lending Brazil some more money when she already owes us a good deal. But it looks like profitable pump-priming: for Brazil is going to resume payments on her old debts, and the interchange of business between the two countries will ease the situation for both sides. The defaulted bonds, representing nearly one-third of all the Latin-American debt to our investors, become alive again.

This sensible and friendly operation, too, is the biggest stroke dealt for Pan-Americanism since the big Lima meeting. It lends off anything like European trade monopoly in Latin-America. When a country so big and potentially strong as Brazil deliberately turns down foreign dictators and snuggles up to her Uncle Samuel, it sets an example that many other South and Central American countries may follow automatically. It may even shake the proud isolation of Argentina, at present the strongest and richest country on the southern continent, though it is surpassed by Brazil in territory and natural resources.

This is incidentally the best kind of defense for American democracy. Fair dealing, trade and mutual confidence are more effective than battleships in the long run, and cost less,—in fact, they produce a profit.

PLANES FOR FISHING

There have been both skepticism and anxiety about those airplanes which help Japanese fishing fleets. Some people suspect their purpose is military rather than piscatorial. Yet a bulletin of our own Department of Commerce gives the information that Japanese planes, in a single year, spotted more than 500 schools of fish for a thousand fishing vessels.

This is an efficient method. Observers in planes can see fish in the water over which they fly. They could easily recognize the movement of fish beneath the surface and indicate their position to fishermen. These, in turn, would be saved hours of searching for the fish and could concentrate on making a good catch.

Unless other fishing fleets in the same waters were using the same methods, it is probable they would consider the Japanese system an unfair practice. It might result, too, in more rapid depletion of certain favorite fishing areas, just as the automobile and airplane have helped hunters to cover more ground in a season and kill more game birds and animals. Some sort of mutual agreement about it seems indicated.

If families were like nations, the families with the most children would think they had a natural right to grab their neighbors' homes.

The naval maneuvers seemed to indicate that Uncle Sam's 15,000-mile waistline is in no immediate danger.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act. OVERWEIGHT, SLUGGISHNESS

I often speak of the condition where the thyroid gland in the neck is too active—makes too much thyroid juice—and so causes gout, rapid heart beat, loss of weight, nervousness and indigestion. This condition is called hyperthyroidism; "hyper" means more or above normal.

The opposite condition—not enough thyroid juice being made—is called hypothyroidism—less or beneath normal—in which there is slowness of the heart beat, increase in weight, and mental and physical sluggishness.

A great amount of this extra weight is composed of mucin—jelly-like glycerin and proteid matter—which is found under the skin, giving the patient the waxy appearance which is one of the outstanding symptoms of hypothyroidism or myxedema, as it is usually named.

Heretofore it has been supposed that this mucin was found only under the skin but Dr. G. Maranon, Paris, in Medical Press, shows that this mucin may be found in other parts of the body causing symptoms which are not suspected as being due to the hypothyroid condition (lack of thyroid juice). Thus hypothyroidism produces dryness of the lining of the nose and throat. Signs of this are difficulty in breathing through the nose, the need of sleeping with mouth open, and loud snoring. Another symptom, in these cases where there is insufficient thyroid juice, is the increased size and cracked appearance of the tongue, and the loss of the sense of taste. Still another symptom sometimes present is a bad odor from the mouth.

Dr. Maranon states further that patients with hypothyroidism often have deafness, buzzing in the ears, and perhaps dizziness. Many digestive disturbances may also be due to the presence of the mucin in and about the digestive organs.

Before trying to place the blame of any or all of the above symptoms on lack of thyroid juice it should be remembered that unless deposits of this mucin are found under the skin, it is not likely that they will be found in other parts of the body and so be causing these symptoms.

Fortunately, if these symptoms are due to lack of thyroid juice, the use of thyroid extract under the supervision of the physician will cause these symptoms to disappear. Just as thyroid extract causes the disappearance of mucin from under the skin, loss of weight, and more mental and physical activity.

YOURS FOR THE DAY

BABSON ON BUSINESS

THE BANKING REVOLUTION. Babson Sees Continued Low Interest Rates for Bank Depositors.

Palm Beach, Fla., March 17.—Few people realize the terrific changes which have taken place in the commercial banking business since 1929. If some banker had lip Van Winkle himself in 1929 and awakened today, he would scarcely recognize the industry. Commercial banking has been revolutionized.

The spectacular decline in interest rates symbolizes this transformation. In 1929, New York banks charged their regular customers 5.58 per cent; today the rate is only 2.24 per cent—the lowest on record. The same trend has taken place in banks throughout the east and north of the country where current rates are 3.33 per cent against 6.01 per cent in 1929; and 4.09 per cent in southern and western districts against 6.14 per cent in the "good old days."

"Squeeze" on Depositors. As a result of the drop in rates which banks charge, the squeeze has been put on depositors. No interest is now paid on checking accounts, which formerly received two per cent. Savings deposits now get a paltry two or two-and-a-half per cent against three-and-a-half to four-and-a-half per cent in 1929. The loss of billions of dollars of commercial loans raised havoc with bank earnings. There are two reasons why this loan business passed out. First, business men have wanted to borrow new money; and second, banks have been too timid about making loans. In not seeking intermediate and long-term business loans on the one hand and turning them down on the other, both the business men and the bankers are probably wise.

Checking account depositors naturally want to be able to use their money when they need it. If the bank lends it on a long-term business loan, it may be tied up in a pasteurizing plant for a dairy farm, a new wing for a factory, or a new department for a store. Naturally, those borrowing the money for such purposes cannot repay it in three months, or a year, or maybe in five years. Certainly, they cannot repay it at a moment's notice when depositors suddenly want their money. So this type of loan, no matter how necessary it is to the nation's prosperity, is now turned down by the banks.

Second Major Blow. The decline in good real estate mortgages was blow number two. Formerly, a big portion of a bank's earning power came from real estate financing. The collapse of the real estate market from 1929 to 1934, plus errors in loan judgment, showed the folly of commercial banks financing a building boom. Recently, the F.H.A., insured mortgage plan has created new interest in home financing by banks, but many bankers are still wary and are taking only the choicest risks. Personal loans, once scorned by bankers, are avidly sought. Yet, these can never replace the once profitable commercial business, and only offer competition to installment credit loans.

Both savings and commercial banks have always owned some public and corporate securities. Never were they emphasized as they are now, however. The watchword of today's banking philosophy is liquidity. It is stressed first, last, and always. While corporate bonds may not be the last word in liquidity nor yield a very good return, they certainly are easier to turn into cash than a pasteurizer, a factory wing, or a store addition. This is one solution to the mystery of why three per cent corporate bond issues have been going over with such a bang. Bankers, however, are not so familiar with bond investments as they might be.

Loaded With "Governments". Some bank examiners urge the purchase of U. S. Government bonds, declaring they are the safest bonds a bank can hold. Bankers like them, too, because they can be exchanged into dollar bills almost at a moment's notice. Illustrating this trend is the fact that over two-thirds of Member Bank investments are in "Government" today, compared with about one-third in 1929. Meanwhile, deposits are steadily increasing—about 100 per cent higher than in 1933 and are above the 1929 high. The bankers are just sitting tight, however, with the greatest reservoir of idle cash in history in their vaults.

The R.F.C., the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Farm Credit Administration, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the F.H.A., and others have gobbled up some of the most profitable business the banks formerly had. We have gone a long way toward complete nationalization of credit!

The private banks are fast becoming merely service organizations running the nation's huge checking business, caring for securities, operating a trust business, and buying government bonds. The gigantic credit agencies are now doing the loan job the banks once did.

New Angle for Uncle Sam. The immediate future does not look too hopeful either. The demand for intermediate and long-term business credit on an installment basis must be met. We must have such credit to stimulate recovery, to create new jobs, to make new products. Hence, the government may be in this branch of the credit business before too long with an intermediate credit bank. The private banks will be financing this new set-up, just as they are all the public credit agencies by their vast purchases of government bonds; but the actual okaying of the credit will be done by Uncle Samuel.

So, with the outlook for more government credit, I see no hope of people receiving a better return on their deposits in the immediate future. Eventually, of course, general interest rates are bound to rise and at least savings deposits should yield a greater return. Despite this gloomy outlook for interest rates, depositors never had better protection for their dollars than they have right now. But if the government does not do a better job on the budget, no one will dare to forecast what the buying power of these dollars may be.

Payroll Taxes One of Major Causes of Business Recession and Is Impeding Recovery. By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Copyright, 1939. Washington, March 17.—Just what taxation is doing to stiffl employment has been for the most part an abstraction, because specific cases have not been brought before congress in any comprehensive way. That these instances exist in large numbers is no longer doubted, but companies which are being hurt hesitate to permit their names to be used for fear it will injure their credit standing.

Here is an example of an actual case, showing what the payroll taxes are doing to a moderate-sized business. It is told in the words of the treasurer of the concern, who writes me as follows: "We give you a brief statement of facts. We were founded 35 years ago. We have grown by returning profits into the business until today we have the largest and most modern plant of our type of business in New York."

"We have 200 employees of which 155 are union journeymen A. F. of L.) with an average pay of $32 per week for 35 or less hours. Seventy-five per cent of our total cost of production is in wages or salaries subject to unemployment and social security taxes, thereby placing an undue burden on us for maintaining high standards of wages and a large ratio of wages to material costs.

"On a net sales volume in 1938 of $865,057 this company showed a deficit of $22,780. This condition was largely due to unemployment and social security taxes which amounted to $25,510.

"This together with compensation, capital stock, state franchise and city occupancy taxes made a total operating tax of $30,977. Is it any wonder we have ceased thinking of expansion or the investment of more capital in business? We operate a large plant in a modern building, paying top rent under a long term lease entered into long before the advent of social security taxes. Our rent amounts to $26,530 per year.

"Our social security and unemployment taxes are $25,510 alone, and four times the cost of our light and power, and twelve times the cost of our water and gas."

The foregoing example relates to a company which does not pay any income taxes or corporation profits taxes of any kind because it is in the red, but nevertheless it must pay social security taxes, not out of annual earnings, but out of reserve capital or borrowings, as unhealthy a condition as could possibly be discovered.

In the business in question, the labor is highly paid and there is no problem of treating labor fairly, because three-quarters of the net sales revenue goes to the workers. Yet a profit is not being earned.

Just how long can business of this kind stand the guff? Notwithstanding the talk here about revising taxes, this particular concern and all other companies in America face an increase in payroll taxes on January 1 next.

This is the picture before a successful business man who has saved his money and is asked to put it into investments that are taxable. He either hoards his money in banks or puts it in government securities or looks around for tax exempt securities. He certainly does not feel like putting his neck out with a 25-75 proposition, in which, even if he overcomes the risk and makes money, he will get the short end of the transaction because of the tax situation. The "what's-the-use" doctrine has become a fact in the business world so far as supplying capital to small business is concerned, and hence the big businesses grow bigger and the little ones struggle on the verge of bankruptcy, with more and more workers growing insecure. That's why the tax problem is impeding recovery.

"I want to be your partner. I'll put up none of the capital, furnish none of the ideas and do none of the work. But I want 75 per cent of the profits.

"You, of course, will put up all of the capital, furnish all the ideas and take all the responsibility of management and you can keep 25 per cent of the profits. If the business does not succeed and you lose your capital, I will not blame it."

Kiwanians Hear Talk on Safety

The part which the New York State Police are playing in the campaign for better education of motor car drivers and for greater highway safety was outlined by Corporal William Cadwell at the noon luncheon of Kiwanis Thursday.

A member of "C" Troop at Sidney, one of the chief duties of Corporal Cadwell is to co-operate in the police campaign for greater safety on the highways and to co-operate with the public schools of the state in the education of the younger generation for better and safer driving of motor cars.

Corporal Cadwell was presented by Kiwanian Morris Samter.

In his talk he asked the Kiwanians to lend their aid to the campaign for safer highways. Many people who consider themselves good drivers, he said, by careful reflection would see their faults. Many drivers who do not intend to violate the traffic laws may do so unintentionally or through lack of care and one of the duties of the police officer is to determine whether violations are of a willful nature before making an arrest.

Looked upon by many people as "cops" who are out to get some one or to make a record of arrests, he said, there was a feeling among some people against officers. This feeling was not general and was being eliminated through a campaign of education among the younger folks and through co-operation of the officers themselves who were being schooled to prevent violations rather than make arrests after a violation has taken place.

He condemned the "ticket fixing" which is liable to be practiced among those with influence and said that state police, being without any political affiliations or feelings, could act with a free hand not hampered by local political influences.

Troopers, he said, like all police officers, had to take "100 per cent abuse" from those stopped and he said that the most frequent offender along this line was the woman, who became indignant when stopped and demanded to know why she was stopped. The officer unable to explain to the public why cars were being halted was frequently in for considerable abuse. One way to pacify the offended party was to take up an excuse or simply tell them to move on, that they were not the party wanted. Women, he said, by statistics were shown to be good drivers.

One of the duties of the Troopers is to ascertain the cause of accidents and to try to prevent them. A spot map is kept showing where accidents most frequently happen and the cause. Where accidents happen in great numbers it is frequently found the driver is not to blame but some road condition exists. It is then their duty to report the cause and have the fault corrected. For that purpose the state traffic commission was organized and now functions.

For the Troopers to completely cover the territory in which a troop operates was impossible. "C" Troop covers 10 counties with its men, an area of some 970 square miles.

"Enforcement is only a small part of our job," he said, and pointed out prevention was one of the big duties.

Referring to the campaign which is being waged for safety courses in public schools, he said, this was a worth while course. Better drivers were turned out, he said, and he commended these highway safety courses.

Speed was not alone the cause of accidents. A fixed limit of 50 miles an hour was responsible for accidents when people attempted to keep up to that limit where highways did not provide safety at that speed. The condition of the highway and the contour of the country governed the speed rather than a set law. Asked why State Police operated the conspicuous white cars, he said it was part of the campaign to prevent accidents. The cars were visible a long distance and served as a cautioning device for the motorist who might otherwise be careless.

"Friendly cooperation of the public is what we want in this campaign," he told the listeners. Usually when an officer stops a motorist he has pretty well made up his mind whether the violation warrants a ticket, and he said that only on rare occasions did the motorist "talk the cop out of a ticket" when the violation warranted the ticket. Officers alert to their job, however, do take into consideration the manner and personality of the driver and his apparent intent or lack of intent to violate the law.

Pedestrians have the right of way he pointed out and warned that it was better to observe that right than to sound the horn in an effort to scare the pedestrian off the road. The few seconds lost in giving the pedestrian the right of way was well worth while. In the 10 counties covered by "C" Troop 121 pedestrians were injured last year by motorists, many of whom were in too great a hurry to heed the right of the pedestrian. There were 243 driveway accidents due to lack of caution.

At the conclusion of the talk President Ed Huben thanked Corporal Cadwell and also Capt. Daniel T. Fox for leading the trooper to Kingston for the discussion.

Guests at Kiwanis were Dr. Baker of Kingston and William H. Phelps, president of Sidney Rotary, who were guests of Ted Peck. As guests of Howard St. John were J. R. Beach of Canajoharie, Lieutenant governor of his district, and Garrett E. Hunt, of New York city.

Next Thursday will be "Rural Day" when the Agricultural Committee has arranged for every Kiwanian to bring a rural friend as his guest. In case the member has no rural friend, Ed. Bower has a list or any member of the committee will supply a name.

During the dinner a quartet, Ray Garraghan, Harry Halverson, Charles Snyder and Roger H. Loughran, gave a number with Paul Zucca leading and Dan Bittner at the piano.

On April 9 Kiwanis will observe Achievement Award Day, when city employees will be guests.

Paul Zucca reported Poughkeepsie Kiwanis Club has not accepted the bowling challenge, but negotiations were still pending. The challenge was issued for March 21.

Says Wicks Has Failed To Accept Challenge

"Wicks has failed to accept the challenge to debate the transit bill," says Jacob Schneider, chairman of the Ulster County American Labor Party. Mr. Schneider continues, "The burning issues of the transit bill which are of much interest to the people of Ulster county are not going to be aired here if Senator Wicks can prevent it. His idea of a debate is a one-sided affair—a public hearing where any one can voice his views, but the senator, himself, remains silent and is not asked to explain the reasons why he has proposed such destructive legislation. What does the senator have to fear if this proposed legislation which robs men of their seniority, pension rights and right of genuine collective bargaining, is up and above board. I do not consider this an answer for a challenge to my debate and will inform Senator Wicks accordingly."

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

The Characters

Assey Mayo, Cape Cod sleuth.
Brinley, a Billingsgate selectman.

Yesterday: There's no trace of a shell around Mary's house at Hill Hollow.

Chapter 11

Slurs At Slade

IT WAS on his way back to town that Assey met with the soprano who had been practicing with the chorus the day before at the Town Hall. She was pushing a bicycle with a flat tire, and Assey gallantly stopped and offered aid.

"Like to put it in the rumble an' drive back?"

"Thanks." The woman was rather massive, and Assey suspected that she was more or less unaccustomed either to bicycling or walking. "I didn't expect this. And I tell you now, as far as bicycling goes, my figure can stay where it is!"

She was so emphatic about it that Assey grinned.

"You're the soprano, ain't you?" he asked as he lifted the wheel into the rumble. "Madame—"

"M-e-a-u-x," she spelled it out. "Not Moo. The next one who moos at me is going to get his teeth pushed in. You," she surveyed with admiration the sixteen-cylindrical Porter, "are not a native, are you?"

"Not of this town, so go as far as you like," Assey said. "Tell me, what do you really think of 'Billingsgate Beautiful'?"

Madame Meaux looked at him. "Don't! Mrs. Brinley brought me here—she heard me at a Women's Club convention—and I'm grateful, and all that, but I didn't know about 'Billingsgate Beautiful' until I got the contract signed. She wrote the words, and the music. And the music, mind you. Let's just pass over Sister Brinley. I want to have kind thoughts about her till Sunday night. I get paid Sunday night. She pays me. Words, mind you, and music, both! Why, the words alone should carry twenty years to life with 'em! Say, after you leave this bicycle some place, could you take me down the road a bit? I want to see a man named Slade."

"Mike Slade?"

"Yes, I didn't know he lived here, but I bumped into him last night at the carnival. I was with Sister Brinley—say, she got stuck on the ferris wheel, and I nearly died laughing! Anyway, Mike gave me the high sign—I guess he and Mrs. B. don't click—and later when he got a chance, he said to drop in on him. Great lad, Mike."

"Known him long?"

"Well, I was working on a theater project a couple of years ago, and he was on an art project, and we were in the same office. He got kicked out. Too words. Gee, he was sore last night about something. He looked just the way he did when Blickstein—he was our director—fired him."

"That must have been after the fire near his studio," Assey said. "He was only a little sore when I saw him—but say, he ain't home. I just been there. He's probably been found and put to work by now. He's a big shot here, you know."

"He's all right really," Madame Meaux said, "except he likes to talk, and he gets sore easy—well, if he's not around leave me here at the garage, and I'll get home on that thing somehow. I ought to rest anyway. I got to sing with the rhythm cats tonight, and I need a rest."

"With the what?"

"The yokel swingers. Upjohn's Merry-men, or whatever they call themselves. Thanks. Be seeing you."

Assey waved and set off for the Town Hall. He had a higher opinion of sopranos, somehow. And it would take considerable force, he felt, to compel this one to warble the ditty about tying apples to a lilac tree.

Pompous Little Man

J. ARTHUR BRINLEY stopped him as he entered the Town Hall by the rear door. Assey knew it was J. Arthur, because his badge said so. There was even a hint of proclamation in the inch and a half high letters.

He was a short, fat pompous little man, and Assey wondered if the shoulder seams in his blue flannel coat could take it until Sunday.

"Er—Assey Mayo? I understand from Weston that you're helping the town, and I want you to know we appreciate—"

Assey barely listened to the little speech. He had a definite feeling that J. Arthur wanted something, and he waited rather impatiently for the preamble of thanks to finish.

"Now I know," Brinley said, "that you will be able to do the town one great service. I refer to Slade, who has—well, I hate to say it, but he has communistic tendencies. I know, Mr. Mayo, that you will be able by tactful methods—or other methods if necessary—to restrain him."

"What's he done?" Assey asked. "My wife and I have always felt that Jeff and Sara Leach rather overstepped, if you know what I mean, when they campaigned for him, and actually allowed him a place on the town board. When you allow a communist, an avowed communist, to become a town officer like my one, well, as I said to my wife that is stretching the democratic form of government a little too far!"

"Well, yes," Assey said, "seems that way, don't it?"

His bland expression never wavered as Brinley looked at him sharply.

"Well," Brinley said, "you will restrain him, won't you? Why it was disgraceful last night, the way he was ranting around about that brush fire! All over town. Some of our guests were most disturbed, and indeed they had every right to be! It's what comes, as I said to Bessie, of letting—"

"Uh-huh. But after all, his studio did nearly burn up, an' he charred his hand. Sort of had some provocation, don't you think? He wasn't just rantin' for the sheer love of it, was he?"

"Why, I—"

"Brinley!" Vincent Tripp beckoned to J. Arthur from the door. "Brinley, quick—er—quickly!"

J. Arthur hustled off, and Assey followed leisurely to the large assembly hall, which was overflowing with people. Old Settlers, he assumed, since most of them looked both old and set.

Up on the stage Sara looked cool and poised and unperturbed. Jeff, sitting directly beneath the American flag, was picturesque and imposing, and more of a McGuffey's statesman than ever. He caught sight of Weston in the background, issuing orders like a major-general.

'Home And Mother'

"THE welcome," J. Arthur was saying, "the welcome of the town to you former residents who have returned to do honor to Billingsgate, the welcome is the welcome your mother would give, and so Mother Billingsgate extends it. In this changing world of ours, with its noise and confusion, its airplanes and fast cars and tall buildings and—er—streamlined trains, still two things remain sacred. Home," he paused, "home and mother. A mother's love is the most beautiful and sacred thing in life. The older we grow, the more we cherish the associations of childhood, and our old school friends and our old school days. And so, those of us who have stayed here in Billingsgate, so we sent the clarion call out to you, who responded by traveling from all parts of our country, and some of you from foreign lands, to come back home. Home to Billingsgate. Home for this week of celebration. All of us here have banded together in one great thought to make this home-coming a real welcome to you, a welcome—"

Assey's eyes met Aunt Sara's. Hurriedly, he edged his way back to the roadster.

But it was not Brinley's oratory that pestered him for the forenoon. It was the absent Slade. Brinley was substituting for Slade. Why should a wordy fellow like Slade pass up a chance to talk his head off without interruption in front of so many people? Something was wrong. After all, why fish in silence when an audience that size was waiting?

"Mr. Mayo?"

He hardly needed the badge to identify Mrs. J. Arthur Brinley. Like her husband, she was short and fat and pompous, and her face was red and perspiring. He knew it would be. She reminded him somehow of an old table someone had given his father, a table made of sixty million different little chips of wood. Perhaps it was her three strings of beads, or her rings, or the buttons on her big-fingered chiffon dress—anyway, she had a built-up look.

"I do hope," she said, "that my husband has seen you? He has? And he told you about that Slade? You will restrain him, won't you? Rushing around with that shotgun! It's disgraceful! A town officer, brandishing a shotgun, with all our guests! People were shocked! I said to my husband, Arthur, I said—"

"Look," Assey interrupted, "let's get to the bottom of this. You an' Mr. Brinley tell me that after the brush fire last night, Mike Slade was uptown, brandishing a shotgun. Am I right up to that point?"

"Well, he wasn't exactly brandishing it, but he had a shotgun with him openly, and it upset a number of people, including many Old Settlers. It upset them very much. Naturally it is upsetting when—"

"Yes, But what did he have a run along with him for? Decoration, or use or what?"

"Yes, I know. Outspoken sort. An old spade caller. But what explanation did he give your husband?"

"Why, it really wasn't an explanation, at all, really. The man was either drunk or crazy. He said he had a shotgun with him, and he intended to carry it with him as long as he felt like it, and certainly until he got the chance to shoot back at whoever had been shooting at him!"

 New Bern, S. C.—Charles J.
 Brinson was ill and bedridden when his house caught fire.
 Firetrucks came. An ambulance came. Brinson refused to budge.
 In the middle of his hot fish supper, he explained, he couldn't be bothered. Firemen extinguished the flames before he finished eating.

—Add Income Tax

New York—Internal Revenue
 Collector Almon G. Rasquin wants to meet this man.
 He received a letter from a Brooklynite. Out dropped a $10 check and a note.
 The note explained the writer hadn't made enough to be taxed —but he was enclosing $5 from himself and $5 from his wife for Uncle Sam because he believed everyone should pay something to support the government.

Poor Fish

San Jose, Calif.—A crash! a shot in the dark! screaming sirens
 —three victims.
 Reconstructing the crime, police learned:
 William Terra's cat upset the goldfish bowl. Terra heard the crash, feared a burglar, fired in the dark. Neighbors, variously reporting an explosion and a murder, sent the squad cars.
 The victims were the gold fish.

Command Performance

Chicago—All Clarence Curley had to do to win his case in court today was to swallow three swords.
 He was carrying them yesterday when he was taken into custody on State street. He explained he was a professional sword swal-lower. The skeptical officers charged him with disorderly conduct pending proof of his claims.
 "If you can show me that you can swallow these swords," said Judge Leon Endelman, "I'll let you go."

Curley put on his act and walked out.

Camera-Shy

Rockford, Ill.—In the 33 years
 grapher, he snapped pictures of thousands of persons.
 He was busy photographing a Parent-Teacher group in a radio studio when he suffered a fatal heart attack.
 Reporters could find no photograph of Pearson. He was camera-shy.

Honor Student
 The name of Janice Reben, listed among the honor students at the Myron J. Michael School yesterday was inadvertently made Louise Reben. Miss Reben was named among the students who received an average of 80 per cent and above.
 A survey indicated the use of machinery displaced 20,000 families from farms in Texas during 1937.

And Then Came Ford
 Dillon, S. C., March 17 (AP)—
 Twenty years ago Probate Judge
 Joe Davis, noticing his birthday was the same as Henry Ford's, began sending the automobile

manufacturer greetings, and Mrs.
 Davis would send along a cake.
 A correspondence developed between the couples and the Fords promised one day to come and pay the Davises a visit. Yesterday afternoon the train, when it stopped here, left a private car on a siding. It was the Fords, come at last. They plan to stay until tomorrow.

 Six American secretaries of state have later become president.

Daylight Saving Starts April 30

Unless the Common Council takes action to rescind the ordinance adopted in March, 1921, Kingston, will automatically adopt Daylight Saving time on Sunday, April 30, and the fast time will continue in operation until the last Sunday in September.

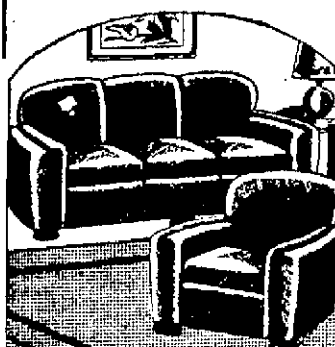

The ordinance was originally adopted as a war measure, but proved so popular in the cities throughout the state that every year the majority of the cities in New York are operated on the fast time.

To Study War Safety

Ankara (AP)—Air raid precautions in particular, and the principles of national defense in general, will form the subject of a two-year course to be introduced shortly in all high schools and universities in Turkey.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — Ben Bernie, who used to carry a small pair of scissors in his coat pocket to snip off the ends of his cigars but no longer does because he doesn't smoke cigars anymore (?), walked up to his trumpet player the other night, cupped his hands in front of him, and said: "What am I hiding in my hands?"

The trumpet player thought for a moment. "The Empire State building?" he said brightly.

Bernie gravely peeped into his closed mitts, shook his head, and replied, "Nope."

"Well," said the trumpet player, "Grand Central Terminal?"

Again Bernie gave a cautious glance into his hands. "Nope," he said.

"Go," replied the musician. "I'm about at my wit's end. The Philharmonic orchestra?"

An incredulous look spread over Bernie's countenance. Once again he peeped cautiously into his closed mitts. Then he demanded: "Who's conducting?"

When you consider that Jan Savitt was a child prodigy, played concerts all over the world, became Stokowski's protégé in the Philadelphia symphony at the age of 15 and was considered one of the coming violinists of the world, it seems strange that in his orchestra today not a single violin is to be found.

But that is true. Savitt was in the Blue Room of the Lincoln, sending his musicians through their paces, when Ed Dukoff told me his story. Information such as this won't change the course of politics in this country, but it does seem incredible to me that a man who has played violin under the direction of the great Toscanini would organize a modern swing orchestra without including at least one fiddle among his instruments.

This was told me in the Blue Room at the Lincoln. I think the Blue Room is there. But the truth of the matter is this. There is a Lincoln and an Edison hotel under one management. In one of these hotels is a Green Room and in the other a Blue Room. So help me, I am never able to tell which is where, and when I mentioned this to Dukoff, he sprang up and shouted, "So you're complaining, and you're only a guest. What do you think happens to me when I try to get them straight on the typewriter? I work for both places."

MEL GRAFF, who was born with a silver fishing rod in his hand, snugly writes from Eustis, Florida, that he has settled down there for a few months and will seek escape from ennui by whipping those Florida lakes for bass.

This is the same comic strip artist (he draws Patsy) who summers on the Sacandaga watershed, and poor fellow, gets so tired from riding in an outboard motor up and down the reservoir catching pike and pickerel that he just doesn't know what to do. It breaks my heart to think of him having to spend several months in Florida after such an arduous summer, playing large mouth bass, while I am having the time of my life (trying to save it from pneumonia) in the pure and driven snow on the sidewalks of New York. Phooie on you, Graff, phooie!

Diversion Tunnel End Is Reached

Workmen on the diversion tunnel at Lackawack, part of the New York city reservoir project, "broke through" at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and the momentous event was suitably celebrated at the Stanley Hotel at 2 o'clock that night.

The diversion tunnel is some 2,400 feet long, running through solid rock at a depth of 40 to 60 feet below the line of the proposed dam. It is about 30 feet in diameter.

The tunnel will serve to divert water impounded by the coffer dam during the construction of the main dam. Afterward it will serve a permanent use for diversion of surplus water, acting in the nature of a spillway, its outlet being some distance below the dam.

Bids for the construction of the coffer dam and for the building of the tunnel were opened on April 26 of last year and on May 11 the commissioners of the New York board of water supply announced that the contract for the two jobs had been awarded to B. Perini & Sons. The successful bidders began operations on their contract shortly afterward.

Built for ACTION-PRICED the same way!

The model illustrated is the Buick SPECIAL model #1 four-door touring sedan $996 delivered at Flint, Mich.

FIRST time we saw the blueprints for this Buick thirty-niner we knew we had something pretty special for folks who like action in their travels.

It had eight eager cylinders in a mighty Dynaflex engine—and they could make a scared jack rabbit eat dust whenever the word was given!

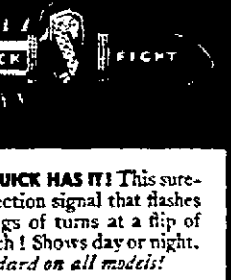

It had a ride we promptly dubbed "full floa"—its stout coiled springs are now 15% softer in the rear, you know, and hooked up, in front, with Knee-Action that banks curves for you.

It had a view, a gorgeous view, from windows and windshields as much as 412 square inches bigger—and it had style that has already altered the pattern on many another car-stylist's drawing board.

So we looked it all over—and went a step further. We decided a car so plainly meant for action needed to have a price that would get action for it!

Now it isn't easy to build such a traveler—rich in reliable Buick quality clear down to the metals it's made of—and still give it a price that rubs elbows with the sixes.

ONLY BUICK HAS IT! This sure-fire direction signal that flashes warnings of turns at a flip of a switch! Shows day or night. Standard on all models!

NO OTHER CAR IN THE WORLD HAS ALL THESE FEATURES

- ★ DYNAFLEX VALVE-IN-HEAD STRAIGHT-EIGHT ENGINE ★ BUICK TORQUE-PRIME SPRINGING ★ GREATER VISIBILITY ★ HANDSHIFTS TRANSMISSION ★ ROOMIER UNSTEEL BODY BY FISHER ★ TORQUE-TUNE DRIVE ★ TWISTE HYDRAULIC BRAKES ★ CROWN SPRING CLUTCH ★ "CATWALK" COOLING ★ OPTIONAL REAR AXLE GEAR RATIOS ★ FLASH-WAY DIRECTION SIGNAL ★ SELF-BANKING KNEE-ACTION FRONT SPRINGING

Choir to Give Public Concert Here

The full Vassar College Choir of 100 voices, under the direction of Prof. E. Harold Geer, accompanied by Mrs. Alice M. Ruggles at the piano, will present a public concert in the Kingston High School auditorium on the evening of April 21, under the sponsorship of the First Presbyterian Church congregation, which recently heard part of the choir at a Lenten service at the church.

The program to be presented here will be the same as that to be given by the choir in the Town Hall, New York city, April 28, which is an annual feature of the college choir's activities and sponsored by the College Alumnae of New York city. The most notable individual works to be heard will be "Litanies a la Vierge Noire" by Poulenc (modern French), and "Song of Mary" by Bennicke Hart, for six-part chorus with violin and piano accompaniment. The former work, Prof. Geer believes, is to have its American premiere by the choir on Easter Sunday. Also included in the program are a group of sixteenth century motets, a group of choral arrangements of religious folksongs, songs by Wolf, and choruses by Bach, Mozart, Caplet (modern French), Howells, Walcker, Holst and Bossi.

Admission to the concert will be by ticket, which may be secured from Fred A. Greene, of 173 O'Neil street.

Lawmakers Hear Talk by Snyder

Frederic Snyder, local traveler and lecturer, who spoke yesterday before the Michigan state legislature, was described there, according to the Kalamazoo Gazette, as a "globe trotting newshound and self appointed apostle to fight Nazism."

It was reported that "Snyder received the usual honor of having the state legislature set its calendar aside to hear him speak at its request."

A further account of Snyder's talk said: "For 20 minutes Snyder gave a spirited defense of democracy. He gave a digest of the present world situation and delivered a blistering attack against Hitler and what he termed to have been 'brutal betrayal' of Prague. With the legislature in session and galleries packed, Snyder received an extended ovation at the close of his address."

PSC Takes Action On Telephone Listings

Albany, N. Y., March 17 (AP)—The State Public Service Commission today ordered nine telephone companies to eliminate from tariff schedules certain provisions relieving them of liability resulting from errors in directory listings.

Those affected are the New York Telephone Company, Chenango and Unadilla Telephone Corporation, the Highland Telephone Company, the Jamestown Telephone Corporation, the Orange County Telephone Company, the Oswego County Independent Telephone Company, Rochester Telephone Corporation, Tri-State Associated Telephone Corporation and the Upstate Telephone Corporation of New York.

The order, result of an investigation instituted by the commission, invokes all the provisions which would void company liability "arising from gross negligence or willful misconduct of their officers, agents or servants in respect to errors or omissions in directory listings."

PLANNING TO SCALE MIGHTY PEAK

Eaton Cromwell (left) of Newport, R. I., and Chappell Cramer of Denver shown in New York checking over equipment they will take along on an expedition to climb 28,500-foot Mount Godwin Austen, between India and Chinese Turkestan. Three others will be in the party. They rate the climb tougher than a try at Mount Everest.

Brickyard to Open At East Kingston

There is rejoicing in East Kingston at news that the Schultz brickyard, which closed down in November, 1931, will be reopened and probably will give employment to around 75 men.

Conducted for years by the late George Schultz, the yard at the time business closed down because of the depression is said to have been one of the best equipped yards along the Hudson river.

A force of men is now busy, under Frank Mooney, who has charge of the yard, overhauling the machinery and getting things in shape for the opening.

It is understood that the business will be run by a new corporation, the East Kingston Brick Co., in which Charles Rovigno of Hoboken is a prominent figure.

Mr. Rovigno is reported to be the owner of half a dozen building supply yards in Hudson county, N. J., doing the major portion of the building material business in that county. The new company will take over the Schultz material yard at Hoboken.

To Harry Weinberg of Hoboken, accountant for the Schultz interests for years, is given credit for interesting Mr. Rovigno in the Schultz yard, which is located just over the Kingston city line, along the Hudson and adjoins the Brigham yard. Resumption of business there, it is said, will mean the disbursement of a pay-roll running somewhere around $2,000 a week.

Demand for brick at the present time is said to be exceptionally good and an indication of that is seen in the fact that the Hillebrand Dry Dock Co. at South Rondout is at present building a brick barge for the Hutton Co. This is said to be the first brick barge built in this section in years.

Local Auto Men Plan Luncheons

The Automotive Dealers of Kingston held their monthly meeting at Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday evening with about a dozen members in attendance. President C. J. Gross presided.

Matters of interest to automobile dealers were discussed and a plan was presented whereby the members of the association may hold weekly luncheons. A plan was advanced whereby a table will be reserved at some hotel or restaurant for a month for a noon meal. Any dealer who desires to dine at that place and meet other automobile men for a friendly discussion of business may do so. President Gross believes by this weekly luncheon arrangement there will be created a closer relationship among dealers and a better spirit of cooperation will follow.

When plans for the luncheons are completed the day and place of the luncheons will be announced to members. The luncheons will be strictly informal and not business sessions of the association. They will be held in addition to the monthly business meetings.

Stock Market Was Dull on Thursday

The influence of the European situation, with the not too remote possibility that the march of Europe's modern Napoleon is by no means ended, dominated the stock market Thursday. However, although there was little incentive to buy stocks, particularly in view of the fact that there had been decided weakness in the London, neither was there a wave of selling, volume being down to 870,000 shares as against a total Wednesday of 1,110,000.

Industrial issues on the New York Exchange, opened down nearly a point below Wednesday's close which marked a loss of 3.44 points; they showed further losses during the middle of the day, then sold off during the last hour, as trading increased and closed the day with a net loss of 0.12 point, down to 147.54 in the Dow Jones averages. Rails were off 0.13 point for the day, closing at 31.42 and utilities showed a decline of 0.09 point, to 25.21. With exception of the utilities bonds were firmer and averages were slightly higher.

In the commodity markets the tone was easier with the exception of sugar and silk, which showed strength. There was heavy liquidation in the grain markets and wheat closed around 3/4 of a cent lower in Chicago, while corn and soybean deliveries established new seasonal lows, corn closing down 3/4 of a cent a bushel. Cotton closed unchanged to off 11 points.

On the London market there was a wide mark-down in shares, as a precaution against possible selling, which however failed to appear in heavy volume. European bonds reacted sharply, with Czech off nine points and Prague 7 1/2, 39, off 11 points. Paris market closed weak; Amsterdam was weak in quiet trade although prices rallied after official close. Carloadings also were lower, as a drop of nearly 11,000 cars in coal shipments last week brought total loadings to 591,891, a more than seasonal drop, but a gain of 6.8 per cent over the same week in 1938.

First three companies to report show a sharp upturn in spring automobile sales. Buick had sales in the first ten days of March 42.6 per cent above those of February; Oldsmobile was up 37 per cent and Pontiac up 35.4 per cent. Atchison, St. Paul, Southern Pacific and D. & H. are among railroads reporting net loss in January.

General Electric received an order for 1,000 room air conditioners, one of largest in company's history. Indicated net of Columbia Gas & Electric for the first quarter is about $3,500,000, or 32 cents a common share, as against $2,500,000, or 25 cents a share in the same period in 1938. First quarter net of Continental Oil is expected to be well below that of the 1938 period, when 39 cents a share was earned; had a large inventory write-down in final quarter of last year, due to cut in price of crude oil.

Finds 4 Per Cent of Americans Illiterate

BERKELEY, CALIF.—Illiteracy in America is far greater today than in any of the more important European countries, according to Dr. Fletcher Harper Swift, of the University of California.

Illiteracy in America, he said, is in excess of 4 per cent as against 34 in England and practically nothing in the Scandinavian countries. He said that in Sweden, Norway and Denmark only those who are insane or mentally incompetent are illiterate.

Chesapeake and Ohio Canal

The Chesapeake and Ohio canal originated in a project formed by George Washington as early as 1774, to make the Potomac navigable from tidewater to Cumberland, and to connect it by common roads and portages with the Ohio. The War of the Revolution postponed the scheme, but it was taken up again in 1784, and the company was incorporated. Of this company, Washington was president until his election as President of the United States. The project encountered many obstacles and in 1820 was abandoned as impracticable. A new company was later organized which constructed the Chesapeake and Ohio canal from Georgetown to Cumberland, completing it in 1850. The cost of the work was over $11,000,000.

There are seldom more than 2,000 stars visible to the naked eye at one time.

Farmers Facing Scramble to Sell Milk to New York

Syracuse, N. Y., March 17 (AP)—Upstate dairy farmers faced today prospects of a competitive scramble to sell to the metropolitan milk market.

Gathering here to decide what to do about suspended price-fixing regulations, dairymen heard Dairymen's League Cooperative Association directors predict immediate sale of milk on a competitive basis.

"We regretfully recognize that during the coming months it will be necessary to sell milk on a competitive basis," the league directors said in a resolution adopted last night. Tremendous volumes of milk are already being poured into the market for any price it will bring.

League directors met on the eve of the mass meeting (12:30 p. m.) to formulate a plan to meet the crisis caused by invalidation of a federal-state milk marketing agreement and a state law. Producers attempt to secure voluntary continuance of the pact likewise failed.

The New York city dealers have withheld action on projected price cuts. Some distributors predicted a drop of one cent a quart tomorrow morning but said this would depend upon farmers agreeing to reduce their prices.

L. A. Van Bommel, president of the Sheffield Farms, Inc., announced in New York today the company has negotiated with the directors of the Sheffield Producers Cooperative Association, representing 10,000 milk producers, a price of $1.78 per 100 pounds for 3.7 milk in the 201-210 milk zone, delivered to the company in February.

Bommel explained the market administration ceased to function on March 11, the day the price was to have been announced for February milk.

More Than 200 Students See Government Workings

More than 200 students of cities in the Kingston High School were instructed at first hand in city government on Thursday afternoon when they assembled in the city hall in the council chambers where they were welcomed by Mayor C. J. Heiselman, who spoke briefly on city government.

The students were then divided into groups and taken in charge by the heads of the various city departments where they were instructed in the duties of the various departments.

The closing session of the city government school was held this afternoon from 1 to 3 o'clock.

Later the students will hold an election at the high school to elect a student mayor and other student officials, and a date will be fixed for observing Student Government Day in Kingston when the students will take over the activities of the city for the day.

Case Against Two Men Charged With Rioting Dismissed

The case against Robert Bradner and Charles Hufcut, Orange county milk producers, charged with rioting in connection with the recent difficulties over furnishing milk to dealers who had not signed contracts, was dismissed by Justice Charles F. Kaiser of Ellenville this morning.

The charge against the two men was brought by Kenneth Brooks, brother of Morgan Brooks, who was slightly injured in the attack on a milk truck he was driving.

Brooks did not appear when the case was called at Ellenville this morning, but his attorney, LeRoy Lounsbury, appeared in court while Bull and Moreale, attorneys for Hufcut and Paul Cair of Warwick, attorney for Bradner, appeared for their clients.

When court opened attorneys asked for a recess, which was granted. They returned at noon and announced to Justice Kaiser that a settlement had been reached, whereupon Justice Kaiser dismissed the charge against the defendants.

Freak March Snowstorm

Pulaski, N. Y., March 17 (AP)—A freak snowstorm, sweeping in from Lake Ontario, blocked highways with drifts four feet deep today and paralyzed traffic within a 10-mile radius. State police reported the effects of the storm were felt inland as far as Lowville, 35 miles from the lake shore. Watertown, 50 miles north of here, reported less than an inch of snow, while Syracuse, 25 miles to the south, escaped entirely. More than a foot of snow fell in Pulaski during the storm, which started late last night and continued this morning. Nearly Pierpont Manor reported 16 inches, Sandy Creek 15 inches and Adams 18 inches.

Honduras Mahogany

English wood cutters in the seventeenth century came from Jamaica to the mainland of Central America to get out "logwood," a valuable dye wood. They discovered that this region produced mahogany. Until the treaty of 1783 between England and Spain, the English were not supposed to cut mahogany in Honduras. However, the temptation was great and much of it was cut and the cutters were often in serious trouble with the Spaniards. The colony was twice wiped out and the survivors sold into slavery. According to Thomas Sheraton's book, "The Cabinet Directory," published in 1803, the Honduras mahogany was the principal kind then being used in England.

BOHEMIAN WOMEN SALUTE HITLER

As Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany made a victorious entry into Sautz, Bohemia, marking acquisition by the Reich of control of most of what was once Czechoslovakia, these women wrapped in shawls raised their arms in a Nazi salute. This picture was transmitted by radio from London to New York.

of France's collective security structure.

In London Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, informed parliament that French-British protests against German absorption of Slovakia and Bohemia-Moravia were "specifically under urgent consideration."

Hardened Attitude

British Prime Minister Chamberlain has expected to reject a hardened British attitude when he speaks tonight (8 p. m. EST.) in a broadcast address at Birmingham. He has acknowledged bitter regret at Germany's emergence in an imperial role with almost 10,000,000 new slave subjects.

Among possibilities of British action were recall of her ambassador from Berlin "to report" on Germany's eastward drive; some form of universal conscription of manpower, accelerated rearmament; military and diplomatic consultations with France; closer relations with the United States and Soviet Russia, regarded by Britain as strong anti-Fascist nations.

These were some of the German acquisitions which the democracies must face: Full equipment for 40 divisions, including tanks and some of the best artillery in the world; vast stores of munitions and about 1,500 first line warplanes for his air fleet.

Efforts Wiped Out

In a nutshell, Germany had wiped out most French and British efforts since last September to match German rearmament on land and in the air.

Reports of arrests and suicides among anti-Nazis and Jews in dissolved Czechoslovakia increased, meanwhile, as Reichsfuehrer Hitler reviewed German troops in Munich, a Czechoslovak city until Tuesday.

Secret police in Prague were making a systematic clean-up of "undesirable elements." The Nazi administration began taking over Jewish-owned stores and placing

County Firemen Tillson Guests

The first rehearsal for their annual minstrel show by the Men's Club of Fair Street Church will be held Tuesday, March 21, at the church parlors. All members of the club are asked to attend. The show will be put on as usual under direction of Harold V. Clayton and will be given in April.

St. Patrick's Parade Is Held in New York

New York, March 17 (AP)—A grand parade it was that came bravely up Fifth avenue this St. Patrick's Day with the old ones from Ireland and the young of them lively as angels and every man's heart among them tender with dreams of Kathleen Ni Houlihan.

John J. Sheahan, the parade chairman, estimated at 75,000, the number marching under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Clan-Na-Gael, Friends of Irish Freedom, Cumann Na MBan and kindred Irish societies.

The sun was shining on gleaming silk toppers the like of which no man ever saw in Clonmacnoise, and glinting in the trappings of the bands. The brasses crash and the trumpets brayed with a strength to lift the weight off the tongue of any old Shanachie in Connacht and set her telling of Murebadh Mead Mac Suibhne's mighty conquests.

Monsignor Michael J. LaVello, vicar general of the archdiocese of New York and rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, led the procession in an automobile as befitting the grand marshal.

Physicians Labor Over Holt Boy

New Rochelle, N. Y., March 17 (AP)—X-ray technicians fought today to dispel the shadows of death for Harold Holt, Jr., whom physicians have said would die within two weeks because of a malignant tumor.

The boy was brought here yesterday by his mother, Mrs. Wilma Holt, 27, traveling by ambulance and airplane from their home in Monongahela, Pa.

Although Pittsburgh physicians had abandoned hope for the boy, Mrs. Holt accepted the offer of Dr. Alexander J. Chliko of New Rochelle, who said he had successfully treated two similar cases. He offered to pay all expenses to bring the child here for treatment.

Deep therapy treatments by X-ray were immediately started, as Harold chattered and gurgled laughter.

Slowly destroying the boy, the tumor has clutched his liver, lungs and one remaining kidney, physicians said. One kidney was removed.

Austin J. Schoenke, New Rochelle Hospital superintendent, said, "It may be several days, possibly a week, before the effects of the treatment can be ascertained."

Rabbi Maccoby To Speak Here

Rabbi Max Maccoby of New York is to address a joint meeting of Hadassah and the Zionists Monday evening at Temple Emanuel, 8 o'clock, it was announced today.

Rabbi Maccoby, although born in England, received his education in this country. A graduate of the University of Oregon he also attended City College and Columbia University, receiving his rabbinic degree from the Jewish Institute of Religion.

For the last eight years he has been associated with the Free Synagogue of Westchester. Previous to that he was Rabbi at Portland, Ore., and Englewood, N. J.

Rabbi Maccoby is an active Zionist, being a member of the largest Zionist group in Mt. Vernon.

Negro Is Fined For Nap in Car

Charles Wright, 50, a negro, of 284 North street, was fined $5 for public intoxication on his plea of guilty when he was arraigned in police court before Judge Matthew V. Cahill this morning.

Wright was found fast asleep and intoxicated behind the steering wheel of the automobile, which was crossways on the Delaware avenue hill, blocking the street to traffic. The arrest was made by Officers Roedell and Fallon, and in order that traffic could proceed the officers were forced to shove the Wright car over to one side of the road. The car had a flat front tire and the fender was badly bent. Later it was towed to the Doc Smith Garage, as it was an obstruction to traffic.

Judge Cahill informed Wright that it was fortunate for him that he was not driving the car at the time he was arrested or he would have been charged with a more serious offense than public intoxication.

An unusual episcopo, or optical lantern for the projection of images, was installed in the operating room of the St. Louis hospital in Paris in 1924. Consisting of lights, prisms and lenses, says Collier's Weekly, it projected actual operations on a large screen in a lecture theater on the floor below, giving the audience an enlarged and closeup view of every movement of the surgeons' hands, accompanied by a vocal description of the progress over a loud-speaker.

The King's dinner was highly proper. As one of the royal ladies described it:
"The guests never touched the meat with their fingers, but with forks, which they carried to their mouths, bending their necks and bodies over their plates."
"However difficult it may be to watch them eat with their forks, for some, who were less adroit than others, dropped as much on their plates and on the wall to their mouths as they were able to get into them."
The year was 1754, in France, and it was John Hore's idea of mischievous fun to bother his aristocratic guests with the new table instruments called forks.
How different today, with silverware the heritage of every household.
—But, believe it or not, the other day we talked to a man who hadn't heard of a "place-setting." He had confessed he felt badly because he promised his wife a set of silverware and hadn't yet been able to save up for it. That is, he felt badly until we explained that the modern way to buy silverware is a "place-setting" at a time. (The six correct pieces for one setting may cost as little as $15.25). Other place-settings are added from time to time. Soon, service for four, then six, then eight, and so on is acquired.
You don't "save up" for silver. You buy your lifetime service in easy stages. Let us show you place-settings in many different beautiful patterns. (It may give you an idea for a "sterling shower" for that bride-to-be among your relatives or friends).
